Visit organised by the Krakow Agricultural Advisory Centre and Małgorzata Bogusz of the Agricultural University in Krakow to familiarize participants with two projects implemented by NGOs to prevent social exclusion in rural areas near Krakow.

1. “The Haven (Przystań)” Social Cooperative (Raciechowice, Myślenice district) is an example of a well-prospering social enterprise established by the municipality of Raciechowice and the voluntary fire brigade in Kwapince. The Cooperative’s principal activity consists in preparing meals for children and youth in the local schools; selling meals to other persons (in cooperation with the municipal social care centre); providing cleaning services in the schools and the municipal offices in Raciechowice; running a guest house (including the organisation and hosting of study visits); and providing catering services. The kitchen uses produce from the municipality – local farmers, local food processors and neighbouring shops. This is a good example of promotion of local produce and also of social integration and cooperation among local organisations.
2. “From the Farmer Association” (Stowarzyszenie Grupa Odrolnika) (Pleśnia, Tarnów district) is an example of innovative entrepreneurship among farmers through the direct sale of organic produce from small and medium-sized farms. It promotes local produce among its customers and tourists, using the area’s natural and cultural resources. This has brought about the creation of a network of tourism products. The study visit aims to show how to avoid poverty and social exclusion among small agricultural producers based on the sustainable and multi-functional development of rural areas.
